with the software-defined-everything (sdx) revolution, we're going to need a new model of marketing to survive in the digital age. marketing is at its best when it's ephemeral and at its worst when it's about programs, advertising, and a "thing" that becomes the focal point of everything. so what happens to a marketing organization that is most at home as a communicator? for a long time, security experts have warned about the dangers of using public wi-fi networks—especially those operated by companies or institutions. once hackers get a foothold on a network, the damage is severe and can last for years. it is unusual, but not impossible, that a laptop will run better with windows built-in driver and not nvidia's, so keep this in mind when troubleshooting. also, some laptops will not even work with intel's built-in graphics drivers if they are not running windows 10. if you have to use a different os or use a different os than windows 10, then your time to fix driver issues will be significantly greater. in general, oems tend to keep the drivers constant across different os, but if the drivers are different for a particular version of windows, you may have to track down the original drivers if you need them. some laptops can get better battery life with power management going in the other direction. this means that the laptop can run the graphics adapter harder, since it needs less power. try this by disabling enhanced networking and enabling optimized power management. if you want both on, then check the advanced settings to disable optimized power management and advanced settings to enable enhanced networking.
